Dr. Nouran Ghanem is a servant leader and esteemed recipient of 30 organizational awards recognizing outstanding performance as a cross-functional collaborator and people manager across federally funded health projects in a highly matrixed environment. She comes to IHEER as a seasoned consultant who builds high-performing teams to apply quantitative and qualitative analysis, to inform the development of high-impact health programs, policies, and initiatives in the public interest.

Dr. Ghanem has led teams on large, complex multi-million-dollar research and development (R&D) projects primarily sponsored by the US Dept. of Health and Human Services (HHS) agencies, including the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), and the Administration for Strategic Preparedness and Response (ASPR).

Trained in social science research methods at the doctoral-level, Dr. Ghanem is a subject-matter expertise in a breadth of health policy issues, including health delivery system and payment reform; public and private payer programs; social determinants of health and health equity; and quality improvement. She excels in managing projects, building stakeholder relationships, and advancing long-term goals for organizations.
